Jobs & career pathways once completing this qualification

Successful completion of this course can set you on the road to a career in the logistics profession. It really is one of the most integral career fields in the world. Logistics involves the proper planning and distribution of resources. At a basic level, it involves moving the right things around, at the right time, and within the right cost structure to maximise customer satisfaction, and company profit. Irrespective of whether the business makes a product or delivers a service, logistics is a 'big ticket' area that all businesses need to get right. A qualification in logistics will empower you to help a business to constantly improve. So if you're keen to make your mark in the world of logistics, then Monarch's TLI50415 Diploma of Logistics equips you with the key technical skills and knowledge to help you achieve your career goals.

Will my previous experience or study count?

Monarch Institute recognises Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) which takes into account the knowledge and skills you have already gained through your previous education and work history, attributing this to your TLI50415 Diploma of Logistics. These may be through formal or informal training and can result in credits towards your qualification. We also offer Credit Transfer (CT). More information about RPL or CT is contained in Monarch's Student Information Guide, which you can access on our website www.monarch.edu.au/student-info/
